CAREER OPTIONS

According to the Bureau of Labor Statistics, employment of radiologic technologists is expected to grow by 28 percent from 2010 to 2020, faster than the average for all occupations. Radiologic technologists typically need an associate's degree. Technologists must be licensed or certified in most states; requirements vary by state.

Graduates of non-college credit educational programs often find an A.S. degree is helpful in addition to their professional credentials, particularly when interested in pursuing a career in management, education or sales.
