CAREER OPTIONS

Occupational therapist assistants under the direction of occupational therapists help people of all ages regain, develop, or master everyday skills in order to live independent, productive and satisfying lives. Working in collaboration with occupational therapists and other healthcare professionals, occupational therapy assistants are employed in a variety of traditional and emerging practice settings including, but not limited to, hospitals, community settings, mental health settings, public schools, rehabilitation settings, home health agencies and nursing homes. Occupational therapy assistants provide occupation-based treatment interventions to improve the quality of life of clients within the community. According to the Bureau of Labor Statistics, employment of occupational therapists is expected to increase 41 percent from 2012 to 2022, much faster than the average for all occupations. Occupational therapy will continue to be an important part of treatment for people with various illnesses and disabilities, such as Alzheimer’s disease, cerebral palsy, autism or the loss of a limb.
